Abstract

Replace this guidance text with your abstract of 250-300 words, written as a single paragraph, without citations, footnotes, figures, tables or undefined abbreviations. The abstract should stand on its own and be fully understandable without reading the paper; as it is the basis on which the Scientific Committee will evaluate your research and decide whether the paper will be accepted for presentation at the conference. It should present, in this order: the purpose of the study and the problem it addresses; the research objective(s) and the hypotheses and/or research questions, as appropriate to the research design; the research design (qualitative, quantitative or mixed methods), the sample, participants or studies analysed and the methods of data collection and analysis; the principal results or, for work in progress, the expected results; and the main theoretical and practical implications of the work, for businesses and other organisations, for destinations, for policy-makers and, where relevant, for society at large, together with what is original about the contribution. The results should be reported rather than announced, and should occupy the largest share of the abstract.

Submission Guidelines

EARTH 2026 welcomes research papers based on qualitative, quantitative or mixed methods designs. Systematic literature reviews, bibliometric analyses and meta-analyses are equally welcome. The abstract should be between 250 and 300 words and must be written as a single paragraph, without citations, footnotes, figures or tables.

Abstracts are submitted exclusively through the online registration form available on the conference website, by 30 September 2026. This template is provided to help you prepare and structure your text before entering it in the form; it is not submitted as a separate file. Notification of acceptance will be sent by 20 October 2026. Authors of accepted abstracts will present their work at the conference and will be invited to submit the full paper after the conference, by 15 December 2026. For any questions, please write to earth@unitbv.ro.

Abstracts will be evaluated on: relevance to the conference themes, clarity of the research objectives and hypotheses/research questions, methodological rigour, significance of the (expected) results, and originality of the contribution.
